Background

Studying controversial issues is an integral part of student learning and is important in preparing students to participate responsibly in a democratic and pluralistic society.

Such study provides students opportunities to develop the ability to think clearly, to reason logically, to open-mindedly and respectfully examine different points of view and to make sound judgments.

Notice under s. 11.1 of the Alberta Human Rights Act

Section 11.1 of the Alberta Human Right Act requires boards to provide parents with notice where “courses of study, education programs or instructional materials or instruction or exercises...include subject matter that deals primarily and explicitly with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation.” Where a parent makes a written request, teachers shall exempt the student, without academic penalty, from such instruction, course of study, educational program or use of instructional materials (see Appendix A).

Procedures

1. The Principal, in consultation with the staff and School Council, is to establish procedures for dealing with controversial issues. Procedures must adhere to Alberta Education requirements as outlined in the Guide to Education under Controversial Issues.
2. School procedures shall:
 - 2.1 Represent alternative points of view, provided federal or provincial law does not restrict the information presented.
 - 2.2 Reflect the maturity, capabilities and educational needs of the students.
 - 2.3 Meet the requirements of provincially prescribed and approved courses, programs of study and education programs.
 - 2.4 Reflect the neighbourhood and community, as well as provincial, national and international contexts.
3. Teachers, students and others participating in studies or discussions of controversial issues shall exercise sensitivity to minimize the possibility that students and others are ridiculed, embarrassed or intimidated for positions they hold on controversial issues.

Notice under Section 11.1 of the Alberta Human Rights Act

On September 1, 2010, section 11.1 of the Alberta Human Rights Act came into force. This section requires boards (including charter schools) to provide parents with notice where “courses of study, educational programs or instructional materials, or instruction or exercises...include subject matter that deals primarily and explicitly with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation.” Where a parent makes a written request, teachers shall exempt the student, without academic penalty, from such instruction, course of study, educational program, or use of instructional material. These requirements do not apply to incidental or indirect references to religion, religious themes, human sexuality or sexual orientation.

The requirements in this legislation are not intended to disrupt instruction or the discussion of controversial issues in the classroom. (See Controversial Issues on pages 72-75 of the Guide to Education.) http://www.education.alberta.ca/media/6542444/guidetoed_2011-2012.pdf

Teachers and schools should continue to respectfully handle the decisions and perspectives of parents when providing instruction and choosing instructional materials. Section 11.1 of the Alberta Human Rights Act continues to call on teachers and school administrators to exercise their professional judgment to determine when notice should be provided to parents and to handle complaints or concerns from parents.

Determining When to Provide Notice to Parents

The Alberta Programs of Study contain the expected outcomes for students, achieved through the instructional choices made by certificated teachers. In light of the requirements in section 11.1, Alberta Education reviewed the Programs of Study to identify those courses that contain outcomes that deal primarily and explicitly with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation. The following courses contain outcomes that require notification under section 11.1:

- Aboriginal Studies 10 –Theme II: Aboriginal Worldviews (religion)
- Career and Life Management (CALM) → human sexuality
- Career and Technology Studies (CTS) Reproduction & Readiness for Parenting (HCS3050) → human sexuality
- Career and Technology Studies (CTS) → Developing Maturity & Independence (HSS1040) →human sexuality
- Health (Grades 4, 5 and 6) → human sexuality
- Health and Life Skills (Grades 7, 8 and 9) → human sexuality
- Religious Ethics 20 → religion

- Religious Meanings 20→religion
- World Religions 30 →religion

Notification under section 11.1 may also be required for locally developed courses that contain subject matter that deals primarily and explicitly with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation.

Depending upon the choices teachers make in how outcomes are taught and the instructional materials that will be used, other courses or programs of study may also require notification to parents under section 11.1. When determining whether notification is required, teachers or boards may wish to consider the following:

1. Notification is required where the instructional material, exercise, outcome or course contain subject matter that deals primarily and explicitly with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation.

For the instructional material, exercise, outcome or course to be considered to deal explicitly with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation, there must be no question that the subject matter is intended to be about religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation. A religious interpretation of an otherwise non-religious subject matter would not be considered explicit. For example, the intent of including evolution in the Science programs of study is to explore its foundation in scientific theory. Although there may be religious interpretations of the origin of life, the inclusion of evolution is not intended to be explicitly about religion.

Similarly, in order to be considered explicitly about “human sexuality”, an outcome, course, exercise or instructional material must also address human sexual behaviours. Therefore, outcomes within the Science programs of study that deal only with the anatomy and physiology of human reproduction are not explicitly about human sexuality; however, outcomes in CALM that examine aspects of healthy sexuality and responsible sexual behaviour are explicitly about human sexuality.

Even if the subject matter deals explicitly with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation, the outcome, course, exercise, or instructional material must also primarily deal with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation. For example, even though various outcomes in the Social Studies programs of study include explicit references to religion, the outcomes are primarily about the core concepts of citizenship and identity. Similarly, notification is not required where an instructional material contains subject matter that explicitly deals with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation, unless that instructional material is also primarily about one of these subjects.

2. Section 11.1 is clear that notification to parents is not required for indirect or incidental references to religion, religious themes, human sexuality or sexual orientation in an outcome, course, exercise or instructional material.

Where a reference to religion, religious themes, human sexuality or sexual orientation occurs indirectly or in connection to another subject matter in classroom discussions, notification is not required. Therefore, teachers should not avoid topics where these subject matters may arise nor should they feel the need to stop classroom discussion.

Similarly, where a course of study or education program does not already deal primarily and explicitly with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation, references to these subject matters in student projects or presentations would be considered incidental and notification would not be required.

3. Section 11.1 does not apply to student behaviour or interactions that are not related to courses of study, education programs, instruction, exercises or instructional materials. Therefore, it does not affect the ability of boards and teachers to address bullying or disciplinary issues, including those related to religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation.

How to Provide Notice to Parents

Notification to parents under section 11.1 should be in writing and allow the parent enough time to request that their child be exempted from the instruction or exercise at issue. Section 11.1 does not require teachers or boards to obtain parental consent before providing the instruction or exercise. Notification procedures must include the following:

A notice provided to the parent indicating that a particular outcome or component of a course contains subject matter that deals primarily and explicitly with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation. A sample notice form can be found in Appendix 4 of the Guide to Education. http://www.education.alberta.ca/media/6542444/guidetoed_2011-2012.pdf

In the circumstance where a student is registered for a specific course which deals primarily and explicitly with religion, sexual orientation or human sexuality, notice may be given by providing a clear notice to the parent on the registration form for said course identifying that the course or a portion thereof is primarily and explicitly about religion, sexual orientation or human sexuality. A parent so notified is encouraged to give notice of their request for exemption at the time of registration.

A separate board, a board which offers an alternative program that emphasizes a particular religion, or a board which has the teaching of religion or faith based education programs on its premises, may satisfy the requirement to give notice of religious instruction by providing a clear statement on registration forms indicating to parents that they are enrolling their child in a school where religious instruction, exercises or instructional materials are used and that religion permeates the school program.

Exclusion from Instruction, Exercise or Use of Instructional Material

Where a parent makes a written request, section 11.1 requires a teacher to exclude a student, without academic penalty, from the instruction, exercise or use of instructional material that includes subject matter that deals primarily and explicitly with religion, human sexuality or sexual orientation. The parent should indicate in their written request whether they want the student to leave the classroom or place where the instruction or exercise is taking place or whether they want the student to remain in the classroom without taking part. A sample exemption form can be found in Appendix 4 of the Guide to Education http://www.education.alberta.ca/media/6542444/guidetoed_2011-2012.pdf.

How to Handle Concerns or Complaints from Parents

Boards must ensure that concerns or complaints from parents are handled in an open, fair, objective and timely manner, and in accordance with their appeal procedures as required by Section 123 of the School Act. Schools and teachers are encouraged to resolve concerns or complaints from parents regarding the requirements in Section 11.1 at the local level.

Procedure:

If a parent has a complaint related to the provision or non-provision of notice or the exclusion of his or her child from instruction, the parent must first address the issue with the teacher. In the event that the matter cannot be resolved in this normal course of discussion with the teacher involved, the parent shall provide the teacher with a written statement outlining the purported breach, the action explained in sufficient detail to allow for a full analysis to take place.

Upon receipt of a formal complaint in writing, the teacher may continue to attempt resolution in an informal and Without Prejudice basis. In the event that the matter cannot be resolved between the teacher and the parent, either the parent or the teacher may refer the matter to the principal. The principal may engage in discussion with the parent and the teacher, separately or together, on a Without Prejudice basis, in a further attempt to resolve the matter.

In the event that the matter cannot be appropriately resolved at the school level, either the principal, teacher or parent may refer the matter to the board for resolution via the procedures established by the board in accordance with Section 123 of the School Act, and as directed by the Minister of Education. In the event of such a referral, the teacher shall provide a statement in writing responding and providing analysis of the complaint.

“Without Prejudice” is a legal concept that encourages parties to resolve matters between them without being constrained in discussions by a fear that what they say may be used against them in a formal process. This encourages full and fair discussion without concern that statements may be misquoted or taken out of context. Parties may wish to identify those communications that are made on a Without Prejudice basis. This may include marking written communications “Without Prejudice.

LEGAL REFERENCE:	Section 18, 20, 39, 60, 61, 113 School Act Alberta Bill of Rights Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedom, Constitution Act, 1982 Guide to Education ECS to Grade 12

Background

Intellectual inquiry requires learning resources representing a wide range of interests so that students may freely explore the world of ideas. Calgary Girls' School respects the right and responsibility of teachers to use supplementary learning resources and to modify prescribed curricula to meet the educational needs of students. In the selection of resources, the School expects sound professional judgement and consultation with others, including parents and other professional colleagues when deemed appropriate. Teachers are strongly advised to consult with colleagues, parents and the Principal in selecting resources to ensure they are developmentally appropriate, clearly linked to achieving outcomes in the Program of Studies, represent a balance of ideas and perspectives related to a controversy or potential controversy and do not create a hostile environment for students whose cultural and religious view differ from those being presented. Teachers must be sensitive to the potential of their own bias on an issue.

The School recognizes, however, that parents may object to teacher or school selection of resources and, therefore, authorizes the appeal process established through the procedures below.

Procedures

1. Selection of Supplementary Learning Resources

- 1.1 The supplementary learning resources in the School's collection are to:
 - 1.1.1 Enrich and support the Program of Studies in a way that caters to the varied interests, abilities, maturity levels and learning styles of students.
 - 1.1.2 Provide variety for students as they seek to gain understanding, develop literary appreciation and aesthetic values.
 - 1.1.3 Cause students to critically examine the information in the resources such that they are challenged to think clearly, reason logically, examine different points of view and through these processes develop skills associated with arriving at sound judgements.
 - 1.1.4 Represent a variety of religious, ethnic and cultural perspectives.
- 1.2 Selection of supplementary resources is to consider:
 - 1.2.1 Readability and popular appeal.
 - 1.2.2 The academic credibility of the author/producer.

1.2.3 The literary merit of the work.

2. Learning Resource Challenges

- 2.1 Despite care taken to select learning resources, occasional objections may be made to an item in the resource collection.
- 2.2 If the resource is challenged, the procedures are as follows:
- 2.3 If, after discussion of the concerns with the teacher and where appropriate, the facilitator of the Learning Commons, mutual satisfaction has not been reached, the matter is to be referred to the Principal. If the objection cannot be dealt with satisfactorily at the School level, the complainant will be asked to file the objection in writing to the Superintendent.
- 2.4 The Superintendent will, at the earliest opportunity:
 - 2.4.1 Read and examine the challenged learning resource;
 - 2.4.2 Evaluate the resource in terms of the expectations and criteria in this administrative procedure.
- 2.5 The Superintendent shall meet with the complainant to review the resource in reference to the expectations of this administrative procedure. At his/her sole discretion, the Superintendent may also seek advice and input from a variety of individuals who can offer a thoughtful and informed perspective on the suitability of the resource in question.
- 2.6 The Superintendent shall inform the complainant, the Principal, and the teacher or facilitator of the Learning Commons affected by the decision.

Background

Inclusive education is founded on the belief that all children can learn and reach their full potential through effective teaching and with appropriate resources and supports. Students with mild or moderate special learning needs, including those who are gifted and talented, as well as students with severe disabilities or complex learning needs have opportunity to participate in regular, inclusive classrooms with appropriate resources and supports. Educational practices that are flexible and responsive to the strengths and needs of individual students create inclusive learning experiences that ensure all students are successful.

In Alberta, educating students with special needs in inclusive settings is the first placement option to be considered by school boards/jurisdictions in consultation with parents and, when appropriate, students. Inclusion, by definition, refers not merely to setting but to specially designed instruction and support for students with special education needs in regular classrooms and neighborhood schools. Rights and responsibilities related to special education are included in the School Act.

The Calgary Girls' School welcomes applications for admission from all girls. CGS promotes inclusive, equitable practice, within the context of a Charter School environment. Due to the school's size and limited capacity to support all learners, decisions about admission of students with severe or complex learning needs will be made in consultation with parents, and with consideration for the programming supports necessary for the child's success. Parents have a right and responsibility to work with the School to ensure their children's special education needs are met, subject to limitations based on reasonableness in each circumstance. In every case, the best educational interest of the student is the paramount consideration for decision-making and programming.

Standards for special education can be found at:

<http://education.alberta.ca/departement/policy/standards/sestandards.aspx>

Procedures

1. The inclusion of students with a variety of special learning needs is part of the regular admissions process at the Calgary Girls' School.

2. Teachers or parents may identify concerns to the Principal and/or Learning Strategist(s) regarding the special learning needs of a student. Both teachers and parents need to share and consider information in the following areas: physical, behavioural (social/adaptive), communicational, cognitive/intellectual, and academic achievement to assist in the identification of special needs. The school may also seek input from the school's educational psychologist and where appropriate, the child's physician. A variety of strategies and assessment data will determine eligibility for special programming and services and the availability of programming and services at the charter school.
3. After the initial information gathering to determine eligibility for special education programming and services, the Principal will determine admission. If the student is eligible for special education programming and the student is admitted, the Principal and/or Learning Strategist(s) will recommend the development of an Individual Program Plan (IPP) that is consistent with the requirements of Alberta Education.
4. The IPP will identify the appropriate supports for learning based on the specific needs of the individual learner. The IPP is developed and/or modified in response to intervention(s). The learning strategist(s) and learning team will consult and collaborate meaningfully with the parent(s) to determine the most appropriate programming needs and placement for the student.
5. The Principal may determine that a student has special learning needs which cannot be met by the Charter School and will inform the parent, in writing, of the decision regarding admission to the Calgary Girls' School.
6. Parent Appeal Process: If the parent and the School are in dispute regarding the admission of the student with special needs and unable to settle the matter following an appeal to the Superintendent, the following additional steps can be taken:
 - 6.1.1 The parent may appeal to the Charter Board a decision of the School regarding the admission of the student with special needs.
 - 6.1.2 The parent may request in writing that the Minister review the admission decision of the board. The decision of the Minister is final.
