Change Leadership Coach

Kerry Woodcock leads change for a world of change. Kerry supports leaders to create powerful relationships—for it is powerful relationships that create meaningful change. As a change leadership coach, she develops the capacity of leaders to lead change together.

Kerry began her career in forestry, living and working in a remote Tanzanian village in East Africa. Swapping the shade of a tree for boardrooms and virtual rooms, she now has her most transformational conversations as a certified leadership coach.

Kerry's passion is to challenge the status quo in herself and others for the sake of developing a mindset of change.

She is an International Coach Federation accredited coach, with a PhD in Geography and Environmental Management. A BrinkLeader, StoryWeaver and LightSprite, she is British-born, and lives in Canada with her family with the world as her playground.
